Big Corn and Tobacco Show

At a meeting of the Board of directors of the Washington Co. Farmers Association held on Tuesday it was decided to hold a two days Farmers Chautauque combined with a tobacco and corn show on November 3rd and 4th, 1916.

The meeting will be held on the fair grounds. A committee on program has arranged for sight of the show grounds in the country on topics and exchange of interests to the farmers.

These meetings are especially interesting and helpful to the showmen as several of the speakers will devote their time to most up to date methods of hog and cattle feeding, corn and tobacco growing and home economics.

Also a special premium of $15.00 for the best of corn of any variety as a championship, the winner of the 1st premium in the other 8 classes being entitled to entry in the championship class.

Premiums will also be offered for the best 10 ears of Red Leaf, Bright Leaf, Legs and Tails, three cash premiums in each class, and a championship premium of $10.00 for the best specimen out of any one crop.

The premiums on the corn and tobacco will amount to $250 and to defray the expense of these premiums, President G. L. Hayden appointed the following Committee to raise on the banks of Washington, Judge J. E. Thayer, H. M. Grundy and J. H. Hayden.

American Woman Learned Something From Visit Paid Her by a Detachment of Villistas.

Some years ago a humorous story went the rounds of the newspapers, about a young lady who, at the invitation of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, held her head high, explaining that she was a daughter of the American Revolution, and that she was descended from a house of noble soldiers and patriots. She was, in fact, a young lady who was fighting today are almost as "well off" as the patriot army of the young lady's house.

An American woman—now safe in the state—wrote that she was one of the "Villistas" who had been sent to her remote mountain camp. They were very decent fellows, and she was very much interested in them. They were very much interested in her, and she was very much interested in them. They were very much interested in her, and she was very much interested in them.

SPAIN'S HISTORY IS BLACK
Beautiful Belgium City Has Through the Centuries Seen the Price of Various Nations.

The first siege of Ostend, the beautiful Belgian city, ended 310 years ago on September 26, 1604, when the city was surrendered to the Spaniards, who had invested the city for over three years. The honorable capitulation followed one of the most heroic defenses in the history of war. On the death of Charles II of Spain the French seized Ostend, but in 1704, after Marlborough defeated the French at Ramillies, it was taken by the English. In 1745 it was recaptured by the French, but it was lost three years later. In 1756 the French garrisoned the town for the Empress Maria Theresa. In 1793 Ostend again fell to the French, who remained in it until 1814, when it was recaptured by the British. In 1814, and in 1815, it was again taken by the French. In 1830, when Belgium was declared an independent nation, Ostend was known as La Reine des Flandres—the Queen of Belgium—and for many years it has been the greatest seaside playground of Europe, a favorite resort for the people of all nations. Its magnificent hotels are among the finest in the world, and the celebrated bathing suits worn by both sexes are the despair of Paris.

In all the political arena, and a most polished gentleman, and yet with all this he is unable to make a single dint in the record of the administration or to point out a single flaw. He is considerable on the My... union, and criticized the President for refusing to recognize Huerta and for not declaring war on Mexico. Mr. Harvey Helm congressman from the eighth district, was the speaker for the Democrats and led out in a speech of one hour, after which Mr. Owens spoke for one hour and five minutes, to be followed by Mr. Helm in a fifteen minutes reply. While there was a good crowd of both Democrats and Republicans in the house, the greatest enthusiasm was during Mr. Helm's reply, in which he went after the speech of the man from Louisville, and called upon him to say as to whether it elected to congress, he would introduce a resolution, asking Congress to declare war on Mexico. Mr. Helm's speech was highly pleasing to the Democrats, and they hope to have him with them again when other political races are on.

Science and Nature.

One great feature of the nineteenth century, from 1850 onwards, was the extraordinary progress of science and the interpretation of nature.

Everywhere it was discovered that by keeping close to the sphere of reality, by seeking to understand nature, we were able to make large progress, not only in knowledge, but also in the practical convenience and utility of life.

If science was successful in the intellectual sphere, there was rapidly adapted to the use of mankind, and the conquest over nature meant not only definite material acquisition but a larger material comfort.

Thus the keynote of the time was materialism in thought and utilitarianism in morals and social life.
